

Live and Work in Alamo Canyon

We need your background in holistic range management and sustainable agriculture to develop our 1200-acre ranch in southern SLO county. This is a rare opportunity for a young couple or family with imagination and energy.

In addition to helping us develop our ranch as a business, we'll also need some care-taking — someone to check on my husband to be sure all is well when I head to town or travel for work. And there'll be some chores. We have dogs, cats, chickens, and a large very informal garden.

In addition to a new cottage for you to live in, we can pay a small salary. Depending on the amount of labor you can invest, we'll consider financial partnership.

Serious students urged to apply.
